NYC Blues Artist, Spring Brooks, new music release

The Times, by Spring Brooks, distributed through Sony's - the Orchard - on all platforms.

New York, New York: Breakthrough blues artist Spring Brooks is releasing her title track, The Times, Friday the 17th on all music platforms. Her song reveals a dynamic sound and relevant discourse for today's blues lovers.

"Spring Brooks brings a warm and melodic voice with plenty of range, a sweet vibrato and melisma, a heartfelt devotion to the blues, and a feline sexiness on stage that will hold your attention front and center" said music club owner Jamey Reilly of Jamey's House of Music.

Recently Spring debuted #19 on the Reverbnation blues charts in New York, New York. While she is constantly reinventing herself as an indie Blues artist she remains true to blues and is keeping the blues alive.

- The Times was recorded and produced by Thomas Hutchings of Artist Without Labels and distributed through the Orchard, a Sony company.

Spring Brooks is a Philly born and bred blues vocalist. She draws her influence from singers such as Yolanda Adams, Beth Hart, Lizz Wright, James Brown, and Nina Simone – and her inspiration from Toni Washington of the Philadelphia Blues Society and award-winning Philadelphia bluesman Georgie Bonds. Spring's sound is generational, raw and authentic. Spring Brooks is currently writing and recording new music and looks forward to sharing it with the world very soon.
